Samantha Brown: Hello? Hello? Hello?

HC: Yes. I'm just calling you as a courtesy to let you know that I did call the Englewood Police and alerted them to this disturbance.

Lee: So did we.

HC: Okay, just do yourself, do everybody a favor? Let the woman into her room? Okay.

Lee: Another passive threat, sure, we'll let the woman into her room when she physically threatened everyone and threatened our children and threatened directly, us.

HC: Okay.

Lee: This is my M.O., Hudson County. This is my M.O.

Samantha Brown: All recorded.

HC: Something needs to happen. If there needs to be any engagement. The police has been notified. Should they do anything, the police will come and arrest them. Now, if there are children in the home... [crosstalk 00:00:53]

Lee: The police will come and arrest us? Police will come and arrest us.

Samantha Brown: Children in the home?

Lee: That's Hudson County threatening us. [crosstalk 00:01:00]

HC: ...there are no children in the home, when there are two tenants who's not on the lease, so they'll have to go too.

Lee: They're not tenants, sweetie. They're not tenants. They're not tenants, they're friends.

Okay?

HC: My thing is, the best thing for anybody to do is to let [Callie 00:01:16] and her partner into her room, she just notified the police.

HC: That would be the smart thing to do. Anybody in there who would, thinking outside of the lens of grandiosity, I would let her go into her room. Mind your own business. That would be wonderful.

Lee: No one is thinking outside grandiosity. May I speak? Okay.

HC: Now remember, there are children, there are no children in the room or are they in the custody of the state? I assume they're in the custody of the state.

Lee: Thank you for your arrogance. May I speak? [crosstalk 00:01:41].

HC: What is more truthful is, all those children have been taken by the state. That's more truthful. So, again... [crosstalk 00:01:53]

Lee: May I speak now? May I speak now? You thug with a degree who works for the system? May I speak now? You totalitarian thug.

HC: [crosstalk 00:02:04] okay, speak, speak, speak.

Lee: Thank you. What's your name, who am I speaking with? What's your name? Who am I speaking with? What is your name? Who am I speaking with?

HC: I don't play that game, please.

Lee: Oh, you don't put your name on the record? I understand. Okay, so I will speak this is not...

HC: Are we saying on the record with your cellphone recording, is that what you're doing? I understand how this works. [Crosstalk 00:02:32]

Lee: Sweety, may I speak? Sweety, may I speak?

Lee: You said I can speak. May I speak.

HC: You are really making the situation way worse, when you have two people living in the house who aren't on the lease. [crosstalk 00:02:46].

Lee: May I speak? They're not living here.

HC: May I remind you ...

Lee: No, you're going to threaten me. That's what you've been doing, that's what Heather's been doing for months.

HC: Listen, I'd have no need threatening you if you'd.. [crosstalk 00:03:02] .

Lee: So then let me speak. Let me speak, ma'am. [crosstalk 00:03:07] Let me speak. Let me speak so you could hear some more information.

HC: Speak, speak.

Lee: Okay. Thank you. Thank you. I appreciate that. So many details that Heather has not told you. Some of the details that Callie has not told you is all that we wanted to discuss today with Callie was the two cats downstairs that are urinating all over our clean clothes and dirty clothes because they don't have a litter box and we would appreciate them not purchasing alcohol and getting a litter box or removing the two cats that were not supposed to be here. As Heather knew, [crosstalk 00:03:45] May I continue speaking, may I continue speaking? May I continue speaking? I know how to over speak too.

HC: Not when you're yelling. Not when you're yelling.

Lee: Ma'am, ma'am, just because you're using your sweet little tone and your degree that.

HC: I asked a question.

Lee: What was your question?

HC: You said the cat can't be there.

Lee: I'm sorry.

HC: You said that the cat can't be there. That's what happened.

Lee: Who said that? Heather said that and we said that? And technically if you'll want and get technical, there's no pets on the lease as far as Heather knows too. So we could get technical.

HC: I think you need to take your dog out then.

Lee: Do you hear them in the background? Then get my effing dog? So you people aren't threatening us, right? You people are threatening us?

HC: Okay, let me talk to you.

Lee: Okay, lets you and I talk because let's you and I get to know each other, sweetie. Let's you and I get to know each other.

HC: You're contradicting yourself. [inaudible 00:04:42] I know you have a dog.

Lee: That doesn't mean anything. That doesn't mean anything. Because when I actually, listen to me, no. See your won't let me speak. There are no pets on the lease. When I actually put the lease in my name, which I'd been trying to do since September, I will be straight up because that is who I am and I will make sure my dog is on the lease because I am not Heather.

HC: It's not on the lease right now. Your name is not on the lease so you have to play nice with everybody who goes into the house.

Lee: Oh, I got to play nice when Heather's been threatening me for three months? Is that what Hudson County telling me? Where I got a false charge with the property sheet sweetie?

HC: Okay. Listen to me carefully. You are making this far more problematic than it needs to be. [crosstalk 00:05:22]

Lee: Do you know anything about my situation? Do you know anything about my situation before you go any further, do you know anything about my situation?

HC: ... You're putting yourself in. You you are putting yourself in a situation where the police are going to be involved over you not letting somebody go to into their room to go sleep.

Lee: No, no. I will not be threatened where I'm living. That is what's happening here. That is what Callie did. You understand that? That is what happened tonight.

HC: Why didn't you call police?

Lee: We did. We went through some of it.

HC: What happened?

Lee: I'm not an asshole. [crosstalk 00:05:56] I'm not an asshole, ma'am.

HC: We did call the police, that's not what was said to us.

Lee: Ma'am? What was texted from Heather was if I don't do this, this and this, after Heather's been behaving the way she has with me for three months and going on a year, I said, don't threaten me, Heather, passively or aggressively with the police. So I understand.

HC: It's not passive aggressive because we've already spoken with police.

Lee: Oh, okay. It's, it's a direct threat. It's a direct threat after she's been passively aggressively and directly threatening me. So thank you for the admission of guilt.

HC: Do you know what passive aggressive means? Do you understand what that means? I'm telling you it is not passive aggressive, it is direct because we have called the police, [Rick 00:06:34].

Lee: What I said no, no, no, no sweetie. What I said is Heather has been passive aggressively attacking and threatening me for over three months and for over a year. Well, I am engaged in a federal lawsuit.

HC: But you haven't been in that home in over a year and she was being passive aggressively. And that's not really a phrase or a word. But if she's been doing that, do you think she would've allowed you to move in and assume some part of the lease? Do you understand that this is not really making any sense? But listen to me carefully. All you have to do... [crosstalk 00:07:10]

Lee: Here's one thing, they could come. We've already established that they could come. They are not to threaten anyone in the house. [crosstalk 00:07:16].

HC: Oh my goodness. Thank you so much.

Lee: We already established that. They are not to threaten anyone like they did before.

HC: What? Oh my goodness. This is going on way too long. Wonderful. So now the police don't have to come to the house. You're going to let her walk into her room, you're not going to open your mouth, or your girlfriend or [Evie 00:07:36] or [Nate 00:07:41]. And she's going to go in her house and you're going to go into yours and everybody is going to be real peaceful? Wonderful.

Samantha Brown: Now would you tell us your name?

Lee: Hold up.

HC: Who am I speaking to now? Who was listening?

Lee: That would be Samantha. Samantha would like to know your name. That's a fair question.

HC: Who?

Lee: Samantha.

Samantha Brown: Samantha Brown.

Lee: Stop.

HC: Who is Samantha?

Lee: Samantha Brown, she's a witness, a federal witness.

HC: But is she on the lease? No, I'm not going to listen to her, I'm sorry. She's not really [crosstalk 00:08:07].

Lee: But you're going to listen to Callie who's also not on the lease. Okay.

HC: Callie is there placed on that lease in that residence by the lease holder.

Lee: Guess what? I am the one who is on the utilities and I am the one who's been sending checks three months, so legally played with me again. Legally play with me again. And then I legally protect myself.

HC: Here's something about your [inaudible 00:08:31]. Are you listening? I want you to be clear about your story. You are not on the lease, other than the lease.

Lee: Sweety, my checks, like I said, my checks, hold on. My checks had been the one cashed by the landlord for three months, but legalities, I know. Okay.

HC: What you're saying is he gathered all the money together, isn't the question who pays you? Callie pays you, right?

Lee: Callie's money got stolen by Heather who didn't pay anything this month because she didn't pay for the toilet.

HC: Everybody pays you. Because you never know if he's making people pay extra.

Speaker 4: He is.

Samantha Brown: No. [crosstalk 00:09:12].

Lee: See her game? Do you see the game?

HC: There's going to be a change to this. There's going to be a change. From now on Heather is going to collect the rent and that's done.

Lee: Guess what. There's not going to be changed to shit [crosstalk 00:09:25] at all because the lease is going into my name. Plain and simple. You are not also, are you with the landlord, are you with the landlord too?

HC: Well, what are we doing right now? Should we hang [inaudible 00:09:39].

Speaker 4: That would be good. You could just move.

Lee: Are you, Oh I did just move? I could just move. Are you with the landlord?

HC: You could just move.

Lee: Are you with the landlord? Do you have authorization to speak for the landlord? Do you have authorization to speak for the landlord?

HC: Does he know about the lease situation?

Lee: Yes, I do.

HC: Okay. Okay, cool. Then we're not going to sublet it right now. But listen to me carefully. I think what happens next is Callie should be allowed to go back into her room without the police having to escort her. That's what I think should happen.

Lee: Callie's going to stay. Does he know about the lease situation?

HC: He might've hung up and maybe not.

Lee: No, we're here.

HC: I think what I really do think in this new leasing situation, you should really get him off the lease because as long as..

Speaker 4: But he's not on the lease. But he's purporting he is on the lease [crosstalk 00:10:40] .

Lee: No, what I'm stating is that utilities are in my name.

HC: Thanks for working it out. I'm so confused.

Lee: Yeah, you're so confused. Ha ha ha ha, your degrees, ha ha ha, your pretention, ha ha ha, what you don't get, ha ha ha.

HC: You're really mad, aren't you?

Lee: I'm really mad? No, I'm doing the same shit that you are. [crosstalk 00:10:59].

Speaker 4: No, I recognize. [crosstalk 00:11:03]. I am somebody who cares about the bipolar population and I really want everybody to get along [crosstalk 00:11:13] .

Lee: So then what's your name? What's your name if you care?

Speaker 4: If you are medicated, and you're not hurting anybody else.

Lee: I'm medicated, I've been taking my medication every single day.

Speaker 5: Forced medication by the way.

HC: I don't thing you've been taking your medication, sir.

Samantha Brown: Yes he has.

HC: Absolutely not. If you were taking your medication then none of this stuff would be happening and Callie could go in her room.

Shay: Yeah, but why?
Bob: What's up with you, what are you doing?
Lee: Hey Bob. How you been?
Bob: So what's the good word?
Lee: We have to talk, okay? I spoke with Ricky and Lauren about a month ago.
Bob: Right.
Lee: And then told them that we're having and issue with the rent and whatnot.
Bob: Okay.
Lee: I told them basically we didn't want to remain living here. You know what I'm saying with the carpet, the smell, with everything it's not... You know what I'm saying? We basically told them we'll pay for where we stay, but we do want to move out. But Ricky and Lauren came back with well we are in a lease. I told him, use 1000 dollars that you guys have for the deposit for this month, I'll drop the other 1000 on and we'll gear up to get out of here this month.
Lee: They came back with no, don't do that. You're in the lease. We can't use the money for the damages. The damages aren't our damages.
Bob: No that is not what that means.
Lee: It was insinuated. You know what I'm saying? In the textbook insinuated. The very first week, I mean to go in and to say you guys don't SMELL anything. That's where we started this. You know what I'm saying? There is no way-
Bob: I don't really where you're going with this Lee. Because, we said we were amenable to anything that you want to do and you said you want to put the rugs up, you should pull them up. We have an no issue with that.
Lee: I argued back and forth with Lauren & Ricky for almost two month. That's why I didn't do it. I put the bunked for the kids out in the living room, the kids lived out in the living room, because I got permission to pull out that one. Not the two bedrooms.
Bob: Okay.
Lee: I have pictures of all of them dude. It's disgusting. What that woman just did to this house. It's still in the hole. If I let the heat, if I shut off the AC and say okay, I don't want to run the AC today because I don't want to pay the bill. On a day like today, all that smell is what's coming from the floors. I've had, I've had pneumonia three times over the past six years. My son has asthma. It's a situation that I had to address. The minute I addressed it and I took out the bedroom, I get a text, "I hope that's not the bedroom, we would have reused that carpet." If you look at the pictures, there's no way you're going to reuse that carpet. Her cats literally, the one room that she ripped out, she's using the fucking carpets as litter boxes.
Bob: But what's the bottom line?
Lee: Do you guys want to fix it? I can fix it. You know what I'm saying? There is that option, I've been saying it to Ricky all along, which I have been trying to-
Bob: Fix what though I'm not sure what you're talking about? Fix what?
Lee: Sand the floors and redo them, because that's the only way to get rid of that smell.
Bob: I thought you said you were going to do that. And then we said that there was no issue.

Lee: I went back and the minute I got the two texts of, "We may have reused the carpet," and all that. That's where I had to take a step back of... You know what I'm saying?

Bob: Let me put it this way, I'm not going to get in between what you and Rick and Lauren did because I wasn't part of that.

Lee: Yeah.

Bob: Okay? That we can all work out. That's not an issue. Okay?

Lee: That is where I am as far as monetarily right now we just got a major, major hit. We went into business. We were doing the staffing.

Bob: Okay.

Lee: The business that we're renting to, they get raided the next week. So we go from 10 employees or 10000 dollars expected for the month to, we're struggling. I have a lawsuit and I have money from my grandmother's house. So us living here, you know what I'm saying? You guys could work with my lawyers to figure out, okay, the minute the probate is dropped, here's the check that's already for you guys. It's up to you guys how much you want to work with us. It's up to,

Bob: Well, it's not the point of working with you. We'll work with you, but we can't carry you every month.

Lee: Yeah, no, that's not what I'm saying.

Bob: We're not going to carry you going for six or seven months worrying about you getting the probate check. Because I've been through probate, they could take forever.

Lee: Yeah, exactly.

Bob: That's not going to happen. Alright, so you've got to come up with the rent today for the two months that you owe. You owe for June and you owe for July.

Lee: Okay.

Bob: So my understanding was, you're going to have that money here, because-

Lee: That's what I've been trying to talk to Rick about. I can pull something where I don't have it and I can. I've already talked to my lawyers, and they're willing to give me money on the other lawsuit, but at the same time with where we are. That's why I told her like I'd rather... We're spending 2200. It's a hefty sum for what we are dealing with.

Lee: So where we are, if we're going to continue that.

Bob: Let's do this. Let's not play a fucking game here, because that's what's happening.

Lee: But here's the thing, Bob, it's not my game that's being played.

Bob: No. You had your time. You had your talk, now it's my time. Okay? Because all this was all fine in the beginning. But now that you can't make the rent, you're going to, you're going to start using this?

Lee: It wasn't fine in the beginning. That's the point, it wasn't fine in the beginning. And that's where the text messages can show it.

Bob: We'll resolve all that stuff. The other stuff. You owe the rent, that's the bottom line.

Lee: That's fine.
Bob: Okay? And the rent's got to be due today. It's not due tomorrow. It's not due in two days.
Lee: Bob, I don't have family. I don't have a family. I didn't grow up... there's no one that I can call.
Bob: I don't want to sound like a hard ass, but that's not my issue.
Lee: I understand. I understand the position. I understand that.
Bob: That's not my issue, because I can't carry this house and Lauren can't carry this house by paying to wait for you to come up with the rent. It's just not going to work.
Lee: Here's the thing. You guys can't carry the house. When I offered you guys 5000 dollars for three months, and let me fix this right now. That was one. So who's going to foot the bill to fix someone else's mess. Should me and my family flip that way.
Bob: No, no, no.
Lee: But that's what Ricky and Lauren pitched back at us. And then after we basically said, "Okay, fine, here's the rent. I'm not footing the bill on fixing the home. What do we do?"
Bob: We said to you, and again, I'm not, I'm not part of those conversations because that was between you and Rick. Okay?
Lee: But that's where the insinuation of us with the damage with the carpet. That was in poor taste. You know?
Bob: I'm not worried about the damage to the carpet. And I'm not worried about the damage to the floor, because I'll fix that I'll.
Lee: But here's the question now. Are you going to give me back to the thousand dollars that I spent or is that going to get applied to the rent for all the people?
Bob: What thousand dollars that you spent?
Lee: You think I pulled the carpet out by myself? I cleaned all the cat piss that was just everywhere by myself? Because I hired people. There's a thousand that was spent on that, then another thousand than I have in receipts for... I mop this floor every single day. With bleach and shit just to not smell it.
Bob: I'll deal with that, okay? Let's not play this game. All right? Because I'm not a game player.
Lee: Neither am I, Bob. Neither am I at all.
Bob: Let me just tell you where you stand. You owe 44 hundred dollars as of today. Okay? That's what you have to pay. All the other stuff, I'll deal with. You want me to come here, clean it, I'll bring people in. I'll clean it. I'll do what I need to do. Okay? That we're going to do. That's what we're going to do. We're not going to play where you went back and said this. You would have to deal with Rick and you guys will have to iron out who said what, because I wasn't part of those conversations.
Lee: It's all been said over text, so it's-
Bob: That's fine. You guys can sit down and deal with that. Okay? You guys can sit down and work it out, because you're friends so you should be able to work that out.
Lee: That's where this has been the situation. That's why me and my wife said, it might just be better to rip off the bandaid, and us move out, and that's where we were threatened with, "Hey, you're in a lease."

Bob: You are in a lease!

Lee: So, here's the question though, Bob. I am in a lease. We know I'm in a lease.

Bob: That's right.

Lee: That saying I'm in a lease, if I want to break my lease, you'll be coming for me for my lease? Because why would that be said when I'm asking since the beginning, "Can you deal with the carpet? The carpet that everyone came out of the place and..."

Lee: But the, here's the thing, here's the thing that did me Bob. and You wore the badge. So here's the thing, you walk out of the house so we don't smell. What are you telling me and my family? Fuck off.

Bob: No, I'm not saying that.

Lee: Come on, Bob. Put the shoe where it's not your family making that statement. And where would you be if your family was moving inside, and your landlord said, "I don't smell the piss. It smells great in there."

Bob: Did I say that? Did you hear those words come out of my mouth?

Lee: I didn't hear it come out of your mouth, Bob. But it did come out-

Bob: Okay. So, don't tell me what I said and I didn't say.

Lee: -it did come out of Lauren's mouth.

Bob: Then you deal with Lauren and you deal with Rick. You don't deal with me. I don't want to hear the bullshit, Lee.

Lee: I'm not trying to bullshit you.

Bob: Because that's what you're shoveling. Listen, I've been around a long time, Lee.

Lee: I know that, Bob.

Bob: I've been bullshitted by the best. So don't try to tell me about every little tiny thing that went wrong in the house now, because you can't pay the rent.

Lee: No, I've been telling you since the beginning, Bob.

Bob: You've been telling me?

Lee: I've asked for your number, on this text message fifty times because I didn't want to deal with Bobby... Or not Bobby, Ricky and Lauren, because in the end the decision keeps coming back to, well, Bobby says this, we got to do this. Okay, so then let me talk to fucking Bobby, because realistically, this is a situation that it's been snowballing one after another after another.

Lee: I could go in through the back if you want to lock it.

Bob: Here's the deal. I will address all of those problems with Rick and Lauren up in the next two days about getting everything straightened out here as far as what you want, as far as... Going to Rick, he's asked you time and time again for the measurements for the doors, to come and fix the doors, or fix all this stuff, whatever. You haven't provided that.

Lee: The doors are sanded doors. You guys have owned this house for... I'll get you the measurements. The doors is like the least.

Bob: Okay we're doing that. But as far as the floors and stuff; I'll worry about the floors, but that is something different. The bottom line is you've got to come up with the rent. That's the bottom line.

Lee: I understand that. I understand that.

Bob: You said to Lauren, "Let me go to the 15th," and she said, "Not a problem." Then on the 15th, "I don't have it. I promise you on July 1st, I'll have both. I'll have both rents."

Lee: That is the anticipated, but at the same time we're fighting-

Bob: That's not my problem, Lee. That's not my problem.

Lee: Here's the thing though, I moved into your house Bob, and I moved in with the family perception. No one acted like family. So realistically, I'm, nobody's fool either. I'm not here in a family environment. When the first day was said, "We don't smell that." You don't smell it right there? For the next 60 days Bobby, I had to deal with it.

Bob: Lee, let me tell you something. I'm off the smell and the... I'm off all that shit.

Bob: Where is the rent? That's where we're at now.

Lee: I don't have the rent for you today.

Bob: When are you going to have it?

Lee: I'll have it in the next few weeks.

Bob: No, that's not good enough, Lee. That is not good enough. We're not going to play this game. Which few weeks and then it goes to another month or anything else. We're not going to play that game Lee, okay? You want me to turn the heat up? I'll turn the fucking heat up.

Lee: What does that mean, Bob?

Bob: Whatever you want it to be. I'm just telling you, Lee-

Lee: No, no, Bob. What do you mean by you'll turn the heat up?

Bob: I'll make your life miserable, Lee.

Lee: You'll make my life miserable?

Bob: Because you're making my life miserable.

Lee: I'm making your life miserable.

Bob: That's right.

Lee: Bob, I'm not paying rent, but here's the thing. Your family's not suffering, and the bottom line-

Bob: I'm suffering, because who do you think is paying the rent? Who do you think is paying the rent? I'm taking loans out to pay the rent that you're not paying.

Lee: You're taking loans out on this house to pay the rent that I'm not paying?

Bob: That's right. That you're not paying.

Lee: You guys all on vacation. You're doing fine, Bobby.

Bob: I'm not on vacation. I left work to come here. I'm working 16 hours a day, seven days a week, Lee.

Lee: I understand that, Bob. I understand that. I'm on the job every fucking day too.

Bob: Well, I have bills to pay and I have responsibilities to pay, and I pay them. Okay. You have a responsibility to pay your rent, because that's where you live. That was the deal. Okay? So you have to pay the rent.

Lee: And when I told your family that I don't want to be in the house, let me pay you the last month. Let's start finding you a new tenant.

Bob: Here's what we're going to do. You come up with 6600 dollars for this month. For June, July, and August. Then you can leave in August. We'll cut your free out of the lease. No, but you've got to tell me when the 6600 dollars has got to be here when.

Lee: I'll tell you God's honest truth, I have to find six to 6600. One hundred percent. I have to find it. I have to get it.

Bob: That's not good enough, you guys. You need to have money here today. You needed to have money here today.

Lee: Bob, I told Ricky and Lauren, we would prefer to move. So what am I telling you guys? Our financial situation is what it is.

Bob: Doesn't matter, prefer what you want to do Lee. Okay? The bottom line is WHILE you're here you have to pay rent.

Lee: No shit, Bob. I'm not trying to circumvent that. But I tried to-

Bob: You are trying. You're trying to give me a bullshit story, and you're going to try and push this into another month and we'll go this way.

Lee: Do you really think I want to push into another month when I said two, three weeks ago, I'd rather pay you for June and leave.

Bob: Yeah, but you can't-

Lee: Why not let me off the hook?

Bob: -you can't go.

Lee: Why are you not letting me off the hook?

Bob: You can't say that June 28th.

Lee: I didn't say it June 28th, I said it the first week of June. I said the first week of June, Bob.

Bob: When are you going to have the money.?

Lee: I have to make the money. I have to make the money or I have to go get it from something.

Bob: Well that's not good enough. Okay. Because I got to tell you, I've got to make the money too, because I want to buy a castle in England. That's not going to work for me either. Okay? You've got to tell me when you're going to have the money. Unequivocally have the money.

Lee: I can't say that. I can tell you 100 times, the same way I told Ricky. I cannot say that.

Bob: What do you think going to live here for fucking free? That ain't happening.

Lee: Am I trying to?

Bob: Yeah you are. That's exactly what happened.

Lee: How in the world am I trying to, Bob? How?

Bob: Because now you went through June, you promised July. Here's July, now you come. You don't have July either.

Lee: I had ten grand to give your daughter and Ricky, and I said flat out, "Can I give you five and call it three months, and give you another five and call three months so I could give you ten-"

Bob: When was that?

Lee: It's in the text message. Lauren said no. Lauren said no to a lump sum of ten fucking grand, Bob. So come on. Can you feel where I'm coming from?

Bob: No, I can't because you know what? If have 10 grand, you put 2200 aside for your rent, and that's what you do with it because that's when your rent is due. Okay? So the bottom line is, you've got to come up with the money. Now you better come up with some money, like in the next couple of days, Lee. Okay? Because this isn't flying. This shit isn't going to fly.

Lee: As far as the heat, Bob. What do you want to do with that? Because, I've had enough shit in my life do I have to look over my shoulder...

Bob: But let me tell you something. Let me just tell you something.

Lee: That's what I'm asking.

Bob: You don't want to play that game with me. I'm just telling you that you don't want to play that game with me.

Lee: I'm not the one that said it.

Bob: I'm telling you, you do not want to play that game with me, because you will find out the hard way that it's the wrong way to play. I'm just telling you that. I'm a nice guy.

Lee: What was implied by that? That's what I'm asking. What do I need to look over my shoulder for?

Bob: Here's what you need to know, okay? I'm a nice guy, but don't ever mistake kindness for weakness because that's a mistake.

Lee: Bob, I'm right here. I haven't flinched, I'm not mistaking kindness for weakness at all.

Bob: I'm just telling you. I'm not telling you to flinch. I'm trying to work with you to do what I can do. But you're not going to give me a shit story.

Lee: I'm not giving you shit story. I'm trying to show you where there was certain things that were tried to be lined up-

Bob: That has nothing to do with that. I will fix that. Okay? And if you had a problem with that you should have said, "Okay, here's what I want to do. I want to have a sit down with everybody and we'll iron this out." Okay?

Lee: Honestly, I think that's the best way to do it. I think that's what we should do next week.

Bob: No, because they're not here. They're not here. Okay? They're away.

Lee: Okay.

Bob: I'm only here to get the money that you owe. That's what I'm here for. I own half the house, Lauren owns the other half of the house.

Lee: I didn't get a lease Bob, until just now with the electricity.

Bob: You had a lease.

Lee: I never got provided a lease.

Bob: You had the lease.

Lee: No I did not. I signed three leases. Lauren said, "I'll give you a copy back." Never got a copy until the other day.

Bob: You know what, she said you got a copy, you said you didn't so you're-

Lee: The AC, if that thing breaks, then we pay for it?

Bob: Yeah, it's on you.

Lee: Okay. That's on... And then if we put in a new one, we leave that for the .house? Does it get deducted from the rent?

Bob: No, no because-

Lee: And you think that's ethically and legally right to put in the lease?

Bob: That's right.

Lee: So we buy you a new unit.

Bob: No, you don't have to buy anything. Put a window air conditioner in.

Lee: So then that wouldn't get fixed?

Bob: Wouldn't get fixed. Or you come to me, you say, "What can we do here?"

Lee: Electricity, I was on the impression that electricity was on that-

Bob: Lee, there's never been any-

Lee: 2200 dollars? I never would have agreed to 2200 dollars for that.

Bob: I don't care. I don't care what you agreed to, because you agreed to it.

You signed the lease for it. There's nobody in the world that gives you electricity and rent unless you're living in a basement-

Lee: There's be plenty of place.

Bob: No.

Lee: There's plenty of places.

Bob: Find me a place.

Bob: Now where are we at with you giving me the money? Where are we at with that?

Lee: I contacted a lawyer, we can meet with the lawyer next week. Figure it out where we go.

Bob: I'm not waiting for you to get a settlement. That's not happening.

Lee: I'm not talking about settling. I'm talking about a landlord tenant lawyer, we deal with it. We put it on paper.

Bob: No, we're not dealing with it. I got a lease that says you owe me the money. That's what I have. I'm not dealing with a landlord tenant lease. I'm not dealing with that, okay. You tell me you come up with the money, I'll get you out of this lease. How's that?

Lee: That's what I'd like to put on paper, Bob.

Bob: No, we're not putting that on paper until you give me some money.

Lee: Why wouldn't we put it on paper?

Bob: Until you give me some money-

Lee: If you're willing to let me out of the lease, because that was the issue-

Bob: I will put it on paper-

Lee: After I pay you?

Bob: Listen to me.

Lee: Come on Bobby. After I pay you?

Bob: No, no. Listen to what I'm saying.

Lee: I'm telling you, you've been up to the sneaky shit. Not so much you, but your daughter.

Bob: You say that again, we're going to have a real problem here.

Lee: Come on come on... You're in my face, you're a Retired Cop. Stop. Stop.

Bob: Fuck you, how about that?

Lee: This right here is why we've been since month one going back and forth.

Bob: Let me tell you something, Lee. Let me tell you something. Okay? I'm nobody's fucking fool. You want to dance, we'll dance right and fucking here, right now.

Lee: I don't want to dance, Bobby. I don't.

Bob: Let me tell you something, Lee, because you're pushing the wrong fucking guy's buttons.

Lee: Since day one, that's what I've been trying to like-

Bob: Here's the deal.

Lee: Since day one, Bobby.

Bob: Here's the deal on the table. You make up with the past rent. Okay? You make up for June and July. June and July. You give me 4400 dollars, you can be out July 31st, you're out. And you better be out. You've got to come up with the money within the next couple of days for that deal to stand. How's that?

Lee: It is what it is, Bob. You know...It is what it is.

Bob: No. Is that the deal? I'll give you the deal. You come up with the 4400 dollars, and you can leave July 1st and there's no penalty on the lease. How's that?

Lee: Can you put that in writing?

Bob: You give me the money, and the day you give it to me, that money, the day you send me-

Lee: What would be the difference with us going to the lawyer's office that's already drafted it, and we both sign it, there's a-

Bob: I don't need a lawyer. I'll give you-

Lee: I need a lawyer. I feel that I need a lawyer in this situation.

Bob: Well, if you can pay for a lawyer, you can certainly pay the rent. Okay? That's the bottom line. You can pay for a lawyer. You can certainly pay the rent. Okay, so here's the deal. I will sit down and write out the document for you the second you pay me the 4400 dollars you're out July 31st, no penalty on the lease, we void the lease. But, you got to give me a date by the end of this week or next week.

Lee: Give me until the end of the next week to come up and figure out a date.

Bob: No, not a date. Not a date. You can start packing your shit now.

Lee: That's what we've already started doing, Bob. That's what when I talked to him a month ago-

Bob: Okay, but you're not going to skip out, Lee. You're not going to skip out.

Lee: Bob, do I look like a scumbug?

Bob: Yeah, you do. Right now, you do.

Lee: I do look like a scumbag? Is that why I got treated like a scumbag?

Bob: No.

Lee: When no one smelled it because you walked out, everyone walked out and no one smelled it.

Bob: I don't want to hear about this stuff.

Lee: You don't want to hear about the damages that were done from someone else?

Bob: Here's what I am telling you to do for me.

Lee: You don't want to hear about damages that were done from someone else-

Bob: I said we'll fix that.

Lee: You want to put them on me. In the text messages you're daughter did-

Bob: You deal with Rick with that and that's not a problem. Here's what I'm going to for you. I told you, I will let you out of that lease the second we sit down together, you and me, as two human beings trying to get along.

Lee: That's what I've been in this situation, Bob, because your daughter also wanted to work from home. And I, me and Shay said, "Hey, we have an opportunity for you guys. You want to talk it over Bobby and see, because you could sit at home and make fucking money right now, we're doing a staffing agency." She doesn't need the money Bob. No, you don't need the money. That's what we're showing. You don't need the money because you're making it off of us.

Bob: I'm not investing money in somebody's business.

Lee: I'm not asking for a fucking investment, Bobby. What investment was this?

Bob: Let's get back to the bottom line.

Lee: But what investment was asked, Bobby?

Bob: I was told that the investment was that we'd invest in a company that you're starting and you need some money.

Lee: No, no investment, Bobby.

Bob: I don't care about that, Lee.

Lee: People work. People who go to work, it's a staffing agency. You know, plenty of people-

Bob: We hire 1500 people a week. I know what it's about.

Lee: So you know, the staffing agency, you know that we make money off of them. So where's their investment in money?

Bob: Here's what I'm trying to tell you.

Lee: Collecting a paycheck.

Bob: When are you going to give me the money? The second you give me the money, I will give you a document that says you're out on July 31st, you're out of your this, there's no penalty, there's nothing, you can walk away from the house.

Lee: Okay, but I have to make some calls. Today is Friday. I have to make some calls and I have to see what I can get. So that question I could legitimately answer for you on Wednesday. Without a doubt, I can give you-

Bob: Tuesday.

Lee: Tuesday's the day after the holiday, fine. My lawyer should be in the office. Tuesday's fine.

Bob: If he can front you up with 4400 dollars, and then you can be out July 31st. Then you know what? I don't have a problem with that.

Lee: That's best for everybody. That's the best for everyone.

Bob: Best for everybody concerned. I'm telling you that-

Lee: That's what I approached Ricky with. I said, "I'd rather not have this. I'd rather give you the money for the rent. Let us give you additional thousand. A thousand security deposit. We can get out at the end of the month." He said, "I can't use that. That's going to be for damages." I say, okay, "How about I give you a 2000, and you fucking keep the thousand and I'd be out at the-

Bob: I wasn't part of that.

Lee: No, I understand that.

Bob: I wasn't part of that, Lee. And I'm trying to be neutral here.

Lee: I understand. Coming from the perspective that I just gave you, we asked to be out. You know what I'm saying? We asked to be out so that we didn't have to have this conversation about what our issues are, and having some say in it.

Bob: But if you have the issues, you still got an obligation to pay your rent, okay?

Lee: I know. Bob, I have. Every every month until just now.

Bob: No, every month-

Lee: Until just now.

Bob: Okay.

Lee: Did you think I expected them to get fucking raided by the FBI? I got 15 people there, and we're looking like we're out of the ten fucking grand month. I'm good. They get raided. Shit happens. When we put our eggs in that basket to make that money. But we don't have parents to go to.

Bob: I don't have parent either. I never had my parents my whole life.

Lee: You get what I mean by, we don't have-

Bob: But I work for it.

Lee: We leave here Bob, we're leaving here with picking back up.

Bob: Okay.

Lee: So that's not where we expected to be. That's what I'm trying to say to you. That's not where we expected to be. 10 grand was what was there? 15 people went down to fucking seven and now we're fucking at groceries. I didn't want to be here.

Bob: I know you don't want to be here having that part of life Lee... Let me tell you something. I know what it's like to be poor, because I was poor. I lived-

Lee: It's a struggle, dude. You fight every fucking meal.

Bob: That's about it. I went days without eating, so you don't have to tell me. I understand. I understand it.

Lee: And where I'm coming from with it, it's disappointing. You know what I'm saying? Like honestly, ultimately, I moved in with-

Bob: Great expectations.

Lee: Bobby, I haven't been safe in a long time.

Bob: I know.
